

M'REYNOLDS TO ENFORCE DISSOLUTION OF TRUST TIES

Attorney General Tells Congress Purpose of Administration Is to Effect Complete Separation of Interests.

Criticises Fiscal Methods of Clerk of District Supreme Court—Would Give Help to Judges Over Seventy.

Trust dissolutions which shall be real dissolutions, removing the same set of men from control of separate parts into which a trust is dissolved, is the aim of the present Administration, according to an announcement in the first annual report of Attorney General McReynolds.

"My fixed purpose is to oppose any plan of dissolution which would leave the separate parts of the unlawful combination under the control of the same set of men," he declared.

The Attorney General recommends a change in the organization of the District Attorney's Office in the District of Columbia. He declares pointedly that the audit of the accounts of the Supreme Court of the District does not appear entirely satisfactory, but does not specify in what manner the audit is not satisfactory or does not meet with his approval.

Wants New Building.

He says: "The District of Columbia is the only district in the United States in which the office of the attorney and clerk of court are organized on a basis entirely different from that which obtains elsewhere. The accounts of the clerk of the District Supreme Court are examined by an auditor appointed by the court, whose examination does not appear entirely satisfactory. Action is taken by the court upon the report of the auditor, which is final and conclusive upon accounting officers. There is no opportunity for the departmental supervision which has proven so salutary in other districts. The office of the United States attorney is still upon the old emolument basis, under which the attorney and his assistants are paid from a sum appropriated from the earnings of the office."

There is no sufficient reason why these offices should remain in a status different from like offices elsewhere, and I respectfully recommend appropriate legislation.

The Attorney General urges a building for his department and a number of increases in salary for his assistants and others. He makes seven recommendations for the betterment of the department and the courts, and in one of them refers to alleged evils in clerks' offices.

The first recommendation suggests an enactment of Congress providing that in cases where a judge in any court below the Supreme Court fails to ask for retirement at the age of 70 years a younger judge, who would take precedence on the bench, be appointed to sit with the older man. Though judges are retired on half pay, many of them fail to take advantage of the retirement clause, the Attorney General says, and the administration of justice has suffered thereby.

Terms For Court Clerks.

"Clerks of United States courts," he says, "should be appointed for specified terms by the courts, with the consent and approval of the Attorney General, and should be subject to removal by the President for cause at any time. This, I think, would add to the efficiency of the courts and protect them from certain evils disclosed by experience."

Provision should be made for a review by the Supreme Court of the final decisions of the Court of Customs Appeals by writs of certiorari, to be granted only upon application of the Government.

"The annual term of the Court of Claims should be fixed to begin on the first Monday in October of each year, and the court should be finally adjourned earlier than the last of June. A vacation of three months seems adequate."

The Attorney General recommends the enactment of the Clayton bill giving the Supreme Court power to promulgate rules in respect of trials on the law side of Federal courts.

It is recommended that all assistant attorneys general be paid $3,000 a year. Mr. McReynolds declares that it is becoming increasingly difficult to get men of sufficient caliber to fill the places for less.

With respect to the anti-trust program, it is made clear that the Attorney General will follow the plan adopted in dissolving the Union and Southern Pacific railroads.

DEVASTATED BY RECENT TEXAS FLOODS

He did not advocate any specific legislation by Congress to supplement the Sherman law, but said an average of thirty-six complaints a month of its alleged violation had been received.

"White Slavery" Prosecuted.

"Since the passage of the white slave act," he said, "to September, 1913 (about three years), there have been 633 convictions, more than one-half during the last twelve months of that period. There have been but ninety-three acquittals, and there were pending in October, 177 cases of defendants under indictment."

"Enforcement of the act has been vigorously carried on under the supervision of the special commissioner and also a corps of local 'white slave' officers who are stationed at most of the principal cities."

McReynolds said $25,000 of $45,000 given the department for "detection and prosecution" of crimes has been set aside exclusively for the "white slave" squad. "Effort is being made to utilize this money to the best possible advantage in the prosecution of interstate white slave cases which involve the element of traffic or commercialism. The department feels that material progress has been made during the past year in suppressing the most vicious features of the traffic."

Prosecution for customs frauds during the last year, the Attorney General reported, has resulted in fines of $230,000 and convictions of thirty-one persons in criminal prosecutions.

That the criminal anti-trust prosecution of the "Shoe Machinery trust" is being held up until after the civil suit is settled, was stated in the report.

United States to Make Inspection.

Certificates of meat inspection from foreign governments will not be accepted as conclusive by collectors of customs according to instructions given by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hamlin. Mr. Hamlin says that these certificates will be given due consideration, but that meat imported will be inspected by officials of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

Bill for Galliard Pension.

Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina has introduced in the Senate a bill to grant a pension of $200 a month to Katherine Ross Galliard, widow of the late Galliard Cut section of the Panama canal.

To Get Half Holiday.

Employees of the Department of the Interior will be given half-day holiday Christmas Eve and New Year Eve. Orders to this effect were issued by Secretary Lane today. It is likely that other departments will follow suit in accordance with custom. On the two dates, the Interior Department will close at 1 o'clock.

Land Ordered Opened.

Nearly 750,000 acres of dry lands in Western States have been opened up to enlarged homestead entry by order of Secretary Lane.

For Quick Reading.

More Clerks For Senators.

Democratic economy was not mentioned by either side today when a resolution providing that any Senator not already having three clerks shall at once be allowed that number, went through so fast that those in the galleries could scarcely follow the proceedings.

Naval Holiday Urged.

The Business Men's Association of Cincinnati urged the Senate in a petition presented through Senator Burton today, to pass the resolution favoring a holiday in naval construction.

Commerce Department Change.

John B. Lloyd, inspector at $850 in the office of the Secretary of Commerce, has been transferred to the Department of Labor. John B. Coon, clerk at $900 in the Bureau of Corporations, and Arthur Harris, laboratory helper at $240 in the Bureau of Standards, have resigned.

SETON STARTLES WEARERS OF FURS

Reminds Women Members of Cruelty in Trapping of Animals For Their Pelts.

"There is reason to believe that in some of our hospitals pauper children are inoculated with loathsome diseases in order that physicians may watch the results that follow," was a message sent to the International Anti-Vivisection and Animal Protection Congress by the anti-vivisectionists present were women furs that were typical of the highest type of cruelty—the brutal trapping of animals.

At the afternoon session Francis H. Rowley, Mrs. James Speyer, Frederick T. Bellamy, Miss Lind-At-Hazley, Dr. Hamilton Pike Biggar, Miss Janet E. Richards, and others are scheduled to speak.

Senator Gallinger's pledge of support to the movement brought forth no greater applause, however, than did that portion of the letter which recounted the terrifying investigations of Dr. B. A. Watson, who raised dogs and other animals to a great height, and let them fall upon pieces of iron, that their backs might be broken, and concluded with the statement that Dr. Watson died in great agony of cancer. It was a concluding portion of the statement that was applauded.

The congress, which is being held in compliance with a resolution of the International Anti-Vivisection Congress in London, July 5 to 10, 1906, as endorsed in Copenhagen in 1911, was opened with prayer by the Rev. Alfred Harding, bishop of Washington. Secretary of State Bryan extended a formal welcome on behalf of the Government and of President Wilson.

Bryan Affixes of Truth.

"In welcoming you," Mr. Bryan said, "let me make a statement which I think can apply in a general way to all of the altruistic gatherings that assemble here and elsewhere. Everyone who believes in the triumph of truth knows it is good to have all subjects discussed. In the Declaration of Independence we are told that there are certain self-evident truths.

"I would make the statement stronger, and say that all truth is self-evident. The object of all of our investigations should be the discovery of truth. When we have discovered a truth we need not fear for it. It can stand alone, as it is a fact make conquests in its own right.

"You, who are here, are not here to create a truth; you are here to discover, and to strip it of the things that make it difficult to understand it. You are preparing the soil. You are furnishing the conditions under which truth may germinate.

President Edward H. Clement of Boston, voiced an antagonism to the Rockefeller Institute, which was voiced in a letter received from Col. Sir Frederick Cardew, K. C. M. G., accepting a position as one of the vice presidents of the organization.

The Rockefeller Institute is the bastion of an imperious aristocracy of science, arrogant and classless. President Clement declared. He branded the institute an appalling and revolting institution to exist in the midst of and in the sight of the common humanity of a great city.

"Are you ready to be vivisectioned?" he questioned. "Are you willing that Rockefeller's jagged, with transplanted organs should take away your sons or your daughters, and scalp and disembowel you for the sake of Rockefeller's business and glory?"

Thin People Can Increase Weight.

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 12 pounds of healthy "meat" there, let should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note the results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and then measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple diet. And best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe, fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly, and makes the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. Jas. O'Donnell, Drug Stores and other leading druggists in Washington and vicinity sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a pack—and a guarantee of weight increase or money back.—Adv.

Persia, in case the doctors should indicate that treatment for him?" Speaking on behalf of the Government of the District of Columbia, Commissioner Frederick L. Siddons said: "I sincerely trust that the deliberations of this Congress that you are going to point the way to the future acquisition of scientific knowledge free from the cruelty that too often accompanies it today."

Pioneer Speaks.

Mrs. Caroline Earle White, of Philadelphia, the pioneer in the anti-vivisection movement in this country, recounted the history of the cause from its inception in England in 1863 to the present day.

As concluding speaker of the morning session Ernest Thompson Seton, naturalist, startled the convention with a declaration that the policy of the anti-vivisectionists present were women furs that were typical of the highest type of cruelty—the brutal trapping of animals.

Chauffeur Is Held For Investigation.

George Davis, a colored chauffeur, twenty-two years old, of 218½ Eleventh street northwest, is being held by the police of the Fifth precinct for investigation in connection with the robbery of Samuel T. McDevitt, in his grocery, 309 Girard street, and of 801 street northwest, at Eighth and L streets northeast, last week.

Davis denies any knowledge of the hold-up, and the police say they have no sufficient evidence to file charges against him.

BLACKHEADS AND PIMPLES ON FACE

Would Itch and Burn. Caused Great Disfigurement. Also Had Danger on Scalp. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Perfectly.

R. F. D. 2, Box 46, Matthews, Ga.—"For three years or more I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. At first my face would itch and burn and then the pimples would break out. They looked almost as if I had measles, causing great disfigurement. They would make my face very red and sore. Then they festered and came to a head and large boils would come on my chin and nose.

"I also had dandruff which caused my scalp to itch and burn. It itched and burned so that I had to scratch and it was very itchy. The dandruff scaled off and showed plainly in my hair. It also caused my hair to break off and become very thin. I used several remedies which did not cure and gave but little relief. After I received a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment I began using them according to directions. I secured two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment which cured me perfectly." (Signed) Miss Willie M. Walker, July 31, 1912.

ASPERIN AND HAY IN SENATE'S EXPENSES

Mustang Liniment and Floss Pillows Also Items in Report of Secretary Baker.

Showing an almost amazing variety of purchases and disbursements in the contingent expenses of the Senate of the United States, items that range all the way from spoons of red tape to the job of Vice President Marshall's chauffeur, the report of the secretary of the Senate, James M. Baker, has made its appearance.

The report shows the expenditures out of the Senate contingent fund from the speaking on behalf of the Government of the Senate last March up to June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

Fifty dollars for the land and four horses to convey President Wilson from the White House to the Capitol and back again at the time of the inauguration and half that sum for the vehicle in which Vice President Marshall rode are among the expenditures.

The automobile of Vice President Marshall draws heavily on the public purse. His chauffeur is paid $1,000 a year. The first month, the Senate paid a bill for $246, $30 for supplies for the machine in April, it cost $67.46 more; and in June about $125 more.

The expenditures are of a bewildering diversity. The automobile purchases include everything from asperin, Jamaica ginger and adhesive plaster to Mustang liniment, timothy hay, bran, and straw. The liniment and hay are for use in the Senate stables. The Senators' bath-room caused some outlay for such things as floor pillows, bags of salt, and mineral waters. Taxicabs to convey Senators home from night sessions and to carry them to night sessions cost considerable sums.

Three Fined For Selling Oleo in Lunch Rooms

The first of a series of prosecutions of Washington restaurant proprietors for selling oleomargarine for butter resulted in fines of $10 being assessed against three offenders. Pleas of guilty were made by Christo Brandt, 522 Ninth street northwest, William M. Burt, 422 G street northwest, and Charles G. Georgian, 416 New York avenue northwest, and Assistant United States Attorney J. A. Cobb recommended the moderate fines on the promise that the offenders would not be repeated.

The Health Department is now preparing information against other restaurant proprietors on the same charge of violating the pure food regulations. The evidence against the men was assembled by detectives, who visited the restaurants and specifically called for butter with cakes. When the attention of the waiters was otherwise engaged, the officers slipped the butter in their pockets, and it was later analyzed by the department.

Capital and St. Louis Are After Convention

Either Washington or St. Louis will be the probable place for holding the forthcoming special Republican national convention. This is the drift of talk among prominent Republican leaders at the Capitol.

Chicago is not by any means out of the possibilities, and there will be an element of the national committee which will strongly favor that place when the meeting is held here December 15. But the present drift of opinion among members of the committee is said to be against Chicago and in favor either of Washington or St. Louis, with the chances for the National Capital much better than many believed when the talk of a national convention first became serious.

Chicago is evincing no special desire to entertain the convention. Washington appeals to many members of Congress and many of the Eastern Republicans because it is easily accessible to them. On the other hand, some of the leaders say the convention ought to go to the middle West.

The prominence of the Presidential primary is something which may affect the convention proceedings. President Wilson has advocated the primary and a large school of Democrats is opposing the primary. If President Wilson tries to force Congress to enact a Presidential primary law he will find himself threatened with a serious split of his party in Congress.
